

Privacy Policy

1. Purpose

This Privacy Policy describes how the company collects, processes, stores, shares, and protects personal and business information.

2. Personal Information

Personal information may include names, email addresses, phone numbers, employee identifiers, customer records, and other identifiable data collected for legitimate business purposes.

3. Data Collection

Information is collected through business applications, websites, recruitment processes, customer interactions, and authorized third-party integrations.

4. Data Usage

Collected information is used to provide services, manage employment, improve products, ensure security, comply with legal obligations, and support business operations.

5. Data Protection

The company protects information using encryption, access controls, authentication mechanisms, secure backups, monitoring, and regular security assessments.

6. Data Sharing

Personal information is shared only with authorized personnel, approved service providers, or when required by law or contractual obligations.

7. Data Retention

Information is retained only for the period necessary to satisfy legal, regulatory, contractual, and operational requirements.

8. Individual Rights

Individuals may request access, correction, deletion, or restriction of personal information where permitted by applicable privacy regulations.

9. Related Policies

Refer to the IT Security Policy, Employee Handbook, Code of Conduct, and Incident Response Guide for additional requirements.

10. Responsibilities

Employees must protect personal information, report suspected privacy incidents, and comply with applicable privacy laws and company policies.
